WE PRESENT herewith, our list of bulbs, and we believe that no better bulbs can be procured at the price. We take the utmost pains to see that they are the very best produced by the best growers in various parts of the world.

Quality in bulbs is highly important, and bulbs at bargain prices are very rarely satisfactory and usually result in disappointment to the buyer. We are always prepared to supply any bulbs not specifically mentioned in our list.

Daffodils - Narcissus

Generally speaking, Narcissus and Daffodils are the same thing, but garden usage has applied the term Daffodil to the giant trumpet varieties and Narcissus to the cluster-flowered and small trumpet types. For beautiful effects in the early Spring, Daffodils and Narcissus have few equals, having a long blooming season, a wide diversity of use, and many of them sweetly fragrant.

Use them generously for solid masses, in groups, borders or for naturalizing among trees.

Plant in September and October, four to seven inches deep according to size of bulb.

Hardy Garden Lilies (Lilium)

The tall stately lilies with their masses of blossoms have a charm that is not surpassed by any other flower. They are becoming more popular each year, and all herbaceous gardens should have a few lilies scattered through them.

Plant them where they will be partially shaded and where other plants will grow up around them. In this manner the soil is kept cool and moist, which is necessary for their welfare.
